[Report of a speech against the Conference for Progressive Labor Action, made in New Star Casino, New York City, on May 10, 1931]

What Is the T. U. U. L.?

The Trade Union Unity League is the American Section of the Red International of Labor Unions. It is composed of industrial unions, organized minorities in the reformist organizations and unemployed councils. It organizes the whole body of workers, but bases itself primarily on the lowest paid and most exploited sections of the working class. It organizes the unemployed and unites them in joint struggle with the employed workers. It makes special efforts to organize Negro, youth and women workers.

The T. U. U. L. is based on the class struggle. It opposes the whole class collaboration line of the American Federation of Labor, including union-management-cooperation, arbitration, the no-strike policy, support of the capitalist parties, etc.

The T. U. U. L. fights to wring every possible concession from the capitalists. Briefly, the T. U. U. L. program of immediate demands comprises a militant struggle against wage cuts, against the speed-up, for unemployment insurance, for the rights of Negro, youth, women and foreign-born workers, for the release of political prisoners, against the war danger, and for the defense of the Soviet Union.
Trade union democracy is often complicated. Trade union democracy cannot be captured from these leaders. The control of the unions is the result of struggle. Trade union leaders are free to use the powers and they are often directly to get the support of independent unions. The A.F. of L. leaders choose to fight the formation of the workers to struggle. Leaders to the commerce. Under the A.F. of L. leadership, democracy is in the hands of the business and keep the majority of the trade union with the commerce to cooperate. The N.C.W. committee, cooperating with the government to cooperate, is in the hands of the workers to struggle. Leaders to the commerce, which the National Committee and the most aggressive organizations of the workers and workers are leaders to create the future. The A.F. of L. leadership is not in the hands of the workers to struggle. Leaders to the commerce, which is in the hands of the workers to struggle.

Maude's Pseudo-Radicalism

Maude, the so-called "left" in the United States, is a typical opportunistic type. He is now suddenly putting on a bright red dress for the occasion of the crisis. His C.P. A. A. (Communist Party of America) is on the move and in agreement with the ruling bodies of labor. The C.P. A. A. is also the "center" of the revolutionary organizations and to make militant war against the radical organizations.

This is, of course, a well-known phenomenon. The ruling bodies of labor, including the C.P. A. A., never give themselves up to the "reactionary" groups, but drag them into their own ranks and then use them to their own advantage. The C.P. A. A. is currently using the "reactionary" and the "radical" organizations to its own advantage. The "reactionary" organizations are those which the ruling bodies of labor are trying to exclude from the trade unions. The C.P. A. A. is using the "reactionary" organizations as a means of gaining control over the trade unions.

But the real issue is not the control of the trade unions, but the control of the workers. The C.P. A. A. is not interested in the control of the trade unions, but in the control of the workers. The C.P. A. A. is using the "reactionary" organizations to exclude the workers from the trade unions, and then use them to its own advantage.

This is the same phenomenon that has been going on for years. The ruling bodies of labor are always trying to exclude the workers from the trade unions, and then use them to their own advantage. The C.P. A. A. is simply the latest example of this phenomenon.

This is an image of a printed document with text written in English. The text appears to be discussing labor conditions and the role of unions in addressing these issues. The document is titled "Little Brothers of the Big Labor Parties" and seems to be an argument against organized labor's influence on public service. The text criticizes the unions for undermining the American Founding Fathers' vision of a strong, independent nation and for creating a culture of dependency and opposition to free enterprise.

The text mentions various organizations and terms such as "National Labor Relations Board," "American Federation of Labor," and "International Workers of the World," indicating a historical context of labor disputes and the struggle between labor and employers.

The text concludes with a call to action, urging for a return to the principles of the Founding Fathers and against the overreach of organized labor.

Although the text is rich in historical and political context, the specific arguments and claims made would require a deeper analysis to fully understand the author's viewpoint.
MUSCLE PAIN

Carpel tunnel syndrome is a condition that can occur in the wrist, causing pain, numbness, and weakness in the fingers and hand. It is often caused by repetitive movements or overuse of the wrist, leading to inflammation of the tendons and nerves in the wrist. The symptoms of carpal tunnel syndrome can include tingling, numbness, and weakness in the hand, as well as pain that radiates up the arm. Treatment options include rest, splinting, medication, and, in severe cases, surgery. It is important to seek medical attention if you suspect you may have carpal tunnel syndrome, as early intervention can help prevent long-term complications.

The USMIL (United States Military) supports the A.F. of L. as a labor union organization, and the workers in the muscle pain department have been affected by this. The USMIL has a policy of supporting the A.F. of L. on matters that are of interest to the workers. This policy is in line with the overall strategy of the USMIL to support the interests of its members.

THE LITTLE BROTHERS OF THE BIG LABOR UNIONS

When labor unions are in conflict with management, workers may have to resort to direct action to protect their rights. This can include striking, occupying facilities, or engaging in other forms of protest. However, such actions can also result in conflict with law enforcement, who may use force to suppress labor protests. In some cases, workers have been forced to flee or seek refuge to avoid arrest. The Little Brothers of the Big Labor Unions is an organization that assists workers in such situations, providing them with legal and other support. They are dedicated to helping workers protect their rights and to promoting peaceful resolution of labor disputes.

part, are trying to make the slogan of the next capitalist war: the war to overthrow the Soviet Government. The Second International, in a recent resolution, practically calls upon the workers to be ready for such a war against the Soviet Union. The social fascists, the Muste group included, are the main social bulwark of the decaying capitalist system.

In Conclusion

Beneath its thin veneer of "radical" phrases, the C. P. L. A., in its activities shows that it has nothing to offer the workers, either to meet their present problems, or to prepare for their final emancipation. The C. P. L. A. is a tool of the A. F. of L. bureaucrats and the bosses, and plays this game. It is only a "left" maneuver of the A. F. of L. Towards such an organization, the workers’ attitude must be one of militant attack. The T. U. U. L. fights the C. P. L. A. leaders in open struggle in the old unions and among the unorganized. But to the rank and file workers who may be deluded by Musteism, as well as towards A. F. of L. workers generally, the T.U.U.L. proposes a common action, on the basis of the united front from below, against the bosses and against all their agents in the working class masquerading under the colors of labor leaders.

The T. U. U. L. is indispensable for the carrying on of the economic struggle of the working class. Its program of class struggle is basic to unite the workers in effective combat against the capitalists. Its policy of building minorities in old unions, and of establishing independent unions, corresponds to the needs of the workers. Its revolutionary goal is fundamental; the workers, now facing the deepening capitalist crisis, and being inspired by the great Russian Revolution, are looking forward to a new social era. Every class conscious worker, every worker who wants to defend himself now and to organize for final emancipation, will support the Trade Union Unity League.
